5. Transnational meeting of project partners in Stuttgart talk to experts

Friday, 04 December 2009 00:00 | Written by Kostas Antoniou |

The Kids2Talk project consortium presented ten games for multilingual children age 3 to 6. Educational experts joined the transnational meeting. Linguists, trainers and teachers, specialist for early childhood education, political decision makers and representatives from kindergartens evaluated all project products. They pointed out that Kids2Talk for the first time developed and piloted toys and games for young children for the support of a multilingual development and multilingual education at the stage of early childhood in Europe. All games are easy to use and support children's creativity.
